Dr. Raymond F. Cohen, born on October 20, 1953, is an established neurologist whose academic journey commenced at Truman State University in Jefferson City, Missouri, in 1972. After a year, he transferred to Truman State University in Kirksville, Missouri, where he completed his Bachelor of Science in 1976. Pursuing his passion for medicine, he earned his Doctor of Osteopathy at A.T. Still University of Health Sciences, also located in Kirksville, in 1980. Dr. Cohen's post-graduate training includes a pivotal internship at Capital Regional Medical Center, in Jefferson City, during 1980-1981. Following this, he honed his expertise in neurology by completing a residency at the Department of Neurology at St. Louis University Medical Center between 1981 and 1982. He has been licensed to practice medicine in Missouri since 1981.

Dr. Cohen's career is highlighted by his board certifications and professional contributions to the field of neurology. In June 1990, he became Board Certified in Neurology by the American Association of Physician Specialists, with a re-certification in August 2021, demonstrating his sustained commitment to professional excellence.

Furthermore Dr. Cohen has been deeply involved in personal injury, testifying on behalf of both plaintiffs and defendants. In August 2017, he obtained Board Certification from the American Board of Independent Medical Examiners, also re-certified in August 2021.

Dr. Cohen is an active member of several prestigious medical associations, including the American Academy of Neurology, American Association of Physician Specialists, and the Missouri Association of Osteopathic Physicians & Surgeons. His clinical practice spans several decades, beginning with a private practice in St. Louis, Missouri, from July 1984 until April 2011, followed by a tenure as a neurologist at the Harry S Truman Memorial VA in Columbia, Missouri, since November 2012. Dr. Cohen has been serving patients in his private neurology practice.
